

International Workshop
Blurring Boundaries in Anti-corruption Research:
A Transdisciplinary Approach

Barcelona (Avda. Tibidabo, 39)
October 20-21, 2016

Thursday, October 20th

16h. Presentation

Agustí Cerrillo. Professor of Administrative Law. Universitat Oberta de Catalunya
Juli Ponce. Professor of Administrative Law. Universitat de Barcelona

16'15h. Corruption seen from Neuroscience

Adolf Tobeña. Professor of Psychiatry and Medical Psychology. Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

17'15h. Physiological and Behavioral Patterns of Corruption

Tarek Jaber-López. Laboratorio de Economía Experimental. Universitat Jaume I

18'15h. Coffee break

18'30h. How to build corruption prevention policies according to cognitive insights

Nicoletta Rangone. Professor of Economic Law. Università Lumsa

Friday, October 21st

9'30h. Preventing Corruption by Promoting Trust - Insights from Behavioral Economics

Johann.Graf Lambsdorff. Professor in Economic Theory. University of Passau

10'30h. The Impact of Big Data on the Fight against Corruption

Stephaan Verhulst. Co-Founder and Chief Research and Development Officer
Governance Laboratory @NYU (GovLab)

11'30h. Coffee break

12'00h. Public Ethics and Prevention of Corruption

Anthony D. Molina. Assistant professor. Department of Political Science. Kent State University

13'00. Conclusions: What can be the contribution of a transdisciplinary approach to corruption for lawyers?

Agustí Cerrillo. Professor of Administrative Law. Universitat Oberta de Catalunya

The seminar will be held in English. Free of charge. Limited access to 25 people. Register in advance by sending an e-mail to tidem.uoc@gmail.com before 15 October 2016.

The seminar is organized in collaboration with the University of Barcelona and with the support of Obra Social "la Caixa" and Ministerio de Economía y Competitividad [DER2014-57391-C2-2-R (IP: Agustí Cerrillo) and DER2014-57391-C2-1-R (IP: Juli Ponce)].